12/3/12 Relations and Functions

Definition: The Domain of a function is all of the things that you can put into the function (all the x values).

Definition: The Range of a function is all the things that can come out of the function (all the possible y values).

Definition: A function is a rule that sends each input (domain) to only one output (range).

You can have   But not good   bad